UNITED STATES RECOGNITION OF MEXICO ARRIVES

Nothing Now Stands In Way of Resumption of Relations

ANNOUNCE POLICY

Final Negotiations Progress Rapidly State Department Declares

Washington, Aug. 31.—The United States has extended political recognition to Mexico.

Official announcement of the resumption of diplomatic relations between the two governments was made at the state department today.

Diplomatic relations between Washington and Mexico City have been broken off since May 1930.

At the beginning of his administration the late President Harding immediately opened negotiations with President Obregon, with a view to establishing a basis for the reestablishment of political intercourse.

For many months the principal question at issue was the retroactivity of article 27, of the Mexican constitution of 1917.

American capitalists with vast oil and mineral interests in Mexico contended that under this section of the constitution their rights were abridged through the confiscation of their property. Article 7 provided that the Mexican people held title to all mineral deposits and that only Mexicans had the right to develop oil concessions.

The alleged confiscation was alleged to have taken place through exorbitant tax levies against foreign owned properties.

The Mexican supreme court finally held, however, through series of opinions that article 7 of the constitution was not retroactive, so that no confiscation of foreign property could be permitted under Mexican law. This cleared the air and paved the way for the recent international negotiations at Mexico City.

In the conference just concluded, the question of whether or not Mexico was possessed of a stable government was not considered, it being assumed by the American representatives that such a government did exist and that it was fully competent to carry out promises that it might make in treaties or otherwise.

Trade between the U. S. and Mexico is expected to boom and Secretary of Commerce Hoover has already completed plans for sending trade agents into Mexico to determine the country's special needs for American manufactured products.

FIRST MUSHROOMS OF SEASON REPORTED

Adam Jack, of the Hook Road, wins first prize in the "first fall mushroom of the season contest."

Some people realize autumn is at hand by the turning of the leaves while others sniff longingly for the opening of the football season.

But to the real, honest-to-goodness mushroom hunter, everything is summer until the first fungus spreads itself over the meadowland. One swallow may not make a summer but one mushroom of the fall variety will make an autumn.

An ample "mush" of the fall fungus was gathered by Mr. Jack, Thursday, the first of the season reported here.

BRISON THINKS COOLIDGE IS MAN

San Francisco, Aug. 31.—"If the names of Hiram Johnson and Calvin Coolidge were submitted to the people in all the Republican states in a presidential preferential primary, Senator Johnson would carry 75 per cent of such states." This was the declaration made here by Senator Harrison of Mississippi, who is in San Francisco in advance of other members of the senate committee on reforestation and conservation of timber, due here early next week. "However," Senator Harrison continued, "Coolidge will secure the next Republican nomination, not because he is the choice of the rank and file of the Republican party, but because of the tremendous power that will be used by his administration in seeking the nomination for him."

SITUATION ADMITTED TO BE SERIOUS; ALLIES TALK INTERVENTION

Italian Premier Declares Greek Reply to His Ultimatum
Unsatisfactory and Refuses Action By
League of Nations

BULLETIN
London, August 31.—(7:30 p. m.)—Martial law has been proclaimed throughout Greece by the Athens government, said a Central News dispatch just received from Athens.

London, August 31.—(6:00 p. m.)—An unconfirmed report was received here this evening that Italy has begun to mobilize.

London, August 31.—Premier Mussolini of Italy, will resist intervention by the League of Nations in the Italian-Greek dispute over the assassination of Italians, according to a Central News despatch from Rome.

Rome, August 31.—The semi-official newspaper Messaggero stated today that Premier Mussolini regards the Greek reply to the Italian ultimatum as unsatisfactory.

London, August 31.—British foreign office officials declared this afternoon in the event of war between Italy and Greece, Great Britain would endeavor to restrict the zone of hostilities, preventing other powers from being dragged in.

London, August 31.—The powers were reported today to be exerting pressure upon Premier Mussolini of Italy, to prevent the Italians from going to war against Greece over the assassination of Italian members of the Albanian boundary commission.

The real situation in Italy is somewhat obscure, owing to censorship. The first battle squadron of the British navy has been ordered to assemble at Invergordon, but admiralty officials claim that this activity is without significance. British destroyers have been ordered to concentrate at an unnamed rendezvous.

There is considerable activity at the British naval base of Malta in the Mediterranean.

British newspapers, in discussing war possibilities, point out that Italy outnumbered Greece as to army, navy and air forces three to one. But there is much conjecture as to the attitude of Jugo-Slavia and Turkey in the event of war.

Jugo-Slavia is angry over failure to acquire Fiume and the Turks are disgruntled over the loss of African territory to Italy.

Most British newspaper believe that Mussolini acted too hastily and drastically in sending an ultimatum to Athens as the five men who were assassinated were attached to an international organization not one of strictly Italian nationality.

Paris, Aug. 31.—With a situation almost paralleling that of Sarajevo, which brought on the world war, an ultimatum by Premier Mussolini to Greece over the killing of the Italian boundary commission, Europe is facing another war and rumors flew wildly through Paris and other capitals.

Mussolini gave Greece 24 hours to apologize for the murders and to agree to pay a large indemnity. The Greek cabinet agreed to meet some of the Italian demands, but refused to accede to them fully. The Italian fleet is concentrating at Taranto, just across the Ionian sea from the Greek coast, and there are reports of concentration of troops in the interior of Italy.

The powers have been making moves to bring the situation under the guiding hand of the league of nations. If the league refuses to entertain the Greek request that it handle the difficult situation arising from the murders, or if Italy declines to accept the league's arbitration, it will mean that the league is useless for the very purpose for which it was founded, namely, the prevention of war.

The fact that the conferences of ambassadors here upheld Italy's action is interpreted to mean that the powers intend to exert the utmost pressure on Greece to force her to comply with Mussolini's terms in order to prevent possible hostilities.

Frankly, many diplomats here said they did not expect that war would come, but they admitted that the crisis was exceedingly severe. It is said that Greece, acting on the ground that Mussolini's ultimatum constitutes a threat of war, will demand intervention by the league, the covenant of which in such cases provides "one year's delay before action." This action was taken to mean that Greece does not intend to comply with Mussolini's demand. The Greek embassy here declared that the $2,000,000 indemnity demanded is impossible of payment, and characterizes the other Italian demands as "incompatible with the dignity of the Greek nation."

A dispatch from Rome says anti-Greek disorders were widespread throughout Italy and the government has appealed to the fascist forces to keep order.

Leonard was arrested by Sheriff Morris Sharp, who believed him taking orders for liquor smugglers, who are said to be bringing real liquor across the Canadian border. One and one-half quarts of Gordon dry gin were confiscated officers say.

Leonard first presented his card, giving the name of Saunders and said he was traveling for a novelty house. He later admitted, officers say, that his name was Leonard and that he was liquor salesman, declaring it was his initial attempt. He is still being held in the County Jail.

TEXAN FINED ON LIQUOR CHARGE HERE

Frank Leonard, 25, Austin, Texas, alias T. E. Sanders of Columbus, reported salesman of real liquor, was fined $500 and costs when he entered a guilty plea to possessing liquor before Magistrate J. E. Jones, Thursday afternoon.

Leonard was arrested by Sheriff Morris Sharp, who believed him taking orders for liquor smugglers, who are said to be bringing real liquor across the Canadian border. One and one-half quarts of Gordon dry gin were confiscated officers say.

HOLDS MONROE DOCTRINE VITAL TO U. S. SAFETY

Hughes Hold Its Not Inimical to Any Other Nation

ADDRESSES LAWYERS

American People Still Intent On Staying Out Of Europe

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 30.—The Monroe doctrine as a cherished national policy of the United States is "inimical to no just interest and deemed to be vitally related to our own safety and to peaceful progress of the peoples of this hemisphere," was discussed here by Secretary of State Hughes in addressing the American Bar Association.

Mr. Hughes pointed out that the American people "are still intent upon abstaining from participation in the political strife of Europe." The American attitude, he explained, is "one of independence, not of isolation."

In this connection, Mr. Hughes said: "Our people are not disposed to commit this government in advance to the use of its power in unknown contingencies, preferring to reserve freedom of action in the confidence of our ability and readiness to respond to every future call of duty. They have no desire to put their power in pledge, but they do not shrink cooperation with other nations whenever there is a sound basis for it and a consciousness of community of interest. Co-operation is not distinction and it is not partisanship."

The words of Washington's farewell address, Mr. Hughes asserted, "were more than a solemn admonition of the foremost American patriot—they set forth principles which those who established our foreign policy held to be its cornerstone."

The secretary then took up the promulgation of the doctrine by President Monroe in his message to congress just a century ago, and sketched its development in later years. Outlining "the doctrine as it has been and as it is believed to remain," Mr. Hughes emphasized the following points:

First, the Monroe Doctrine is not a policy of aggression, but a policy of self-defense; second, as its policy is distinctively the policy of the United States, the American government reserves to itself its definition, interpretation and application; third, the doctrine "does not infringe upon the independence and sovereignty of other American states;" fourth, intervention in Haiti, Cuba and elsewhere "were not to exploit, but to aid, not to subvert, but to help in laying the foundations for sound, stable and independent government;" fifth, the Monroe doctrine "does not stand in the way of Pan-American cooperation—rather it affords the necessary foundation for that co-operation in the independence and security of American states."

WILL CARRY BUS LICENSE FEE CASE TO HIGHER COURT

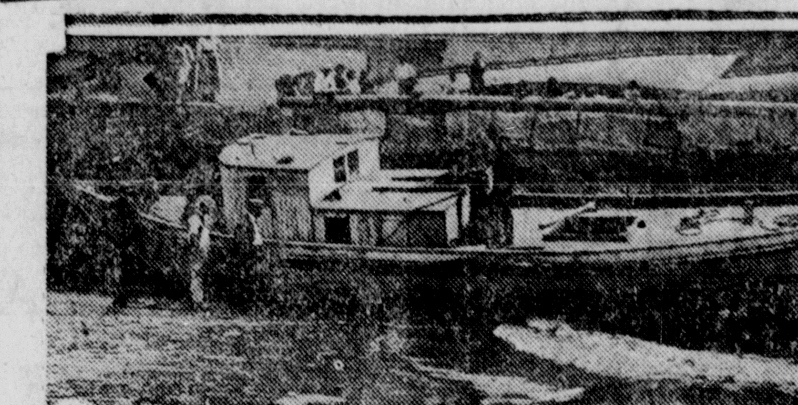

The legal battle between the city of Xenia with interurban bus operators to force the operators to pay a license fee in compliance with a city ordinance will be carried to higher courts.

This was assured Thursday after Clarence S. Stoner, operator of a line between Dayton and Xenia had been fined $50 and costs by Judge Smith, of Municipal Court for violation of the ordinance, after a hearing Thursday afternoon.

By agreement, cases against other interurban bus line owners have been temporarily suspended and the action centered on the Stoner case to make a test case of the action. Attorneys for Stoner signified their intention of carrying the case to Common Pleas Court on appeal and in order to get a hearing as soon as possible and take the action to test the ordinance before the Court of Appeals.

Other cases will be held up pending a decision on the Stoner case by agreement.

HELD AS SKIPPER OF PIRATE CRAFT

Pirate Craft and Carl N. A. Voss

Carl N. A. Voss, Gloucester (Mass.) business man and confessed rum runner is charged with shooting Captain Arthur Moore and Cook Harry Harn on the Canadian rum-running ship "J. Scott Hankinson," off Cape Ann. Voss denied the charges. The "Hankinson," lying in "Rum Row" to sell her illicit cargo was boarded by desperadoes from the stolen motorboat Greyhound, 15 miles off Thatcher's Island. After the shooting the pirates looted the ship of its cargo and money and scuttled it, but failed to sink it. The Greyhound was found later by Gloucester fishermen and towed ashore.

HEAVY TOLL TAKEN IN BLAST IN PHILADELPHIA ON FRIDAY

Philadelphia, Pa., August 31.—Two persons are dead, two dying and eight injured following an explosion early today that destroyed a nitro naphthalene still in the chemical works of the Barrett Company, chemical engineers here.

Firemen with difficulty checked the flames which followed the blast. As an ambulance was about to move off with some of the injured, its driver James Rowley, who was cranking it, was struck by a motor car both, his legs being broken. A policeman drove the ambulance to the hospital.

Four more of the injured are in a critical condition. The dead are: Andrew Kalbas and John Kananak, of Philadelphia. The dying: Gus Adams and Stanley Manoski, of this city.

The injured: Alexander Knox, Stanislaus Michelpsky, John James, William Dirne, Thomas Marvine, Michael Geddos, Frank Norton and Frank Donickston, all of Philadelphia.

INDIANA GOVERNOR RESIGNS AS HEAD OF BANKING HOUSE

Indianapolis, Aug. 31.—Governor Warren T. McCray, who took office a millionaire, today will face a creditors' meeting, the victim, he claims, of the agricultural depression.

The meeting of creditors, largely banks which hold the governor's paper, was called by the governor himself, following the announcement of his resignation as president of the Discount and Deposit bank of Kentland, Ind.

"My land holdings amounting to more than 15,000 acres of choice land, together with inability to cash the cattle paper due me from my cattle customers, amounting to more than $500,000, and the depression in land and cattle values, have made it impossible for me to meet my obligations as they matured," the governor declared in a statement.

The governor's bank, although a small institution, at various times has been a heavy depository for state funds, having been allocated $175,000 by the state board of finance. The bank also held funds of the state board of agriculture.

A pool of $350,000 was raised by prominent politicians and financiers headed by ex-Governor James P. Goodrich in an effort to help the governor renege himself, and although this relieved the governor of a serious immediate embarrassment, it was found necessary to call his creditors together.

FOREIGNER SENT TO STATE HOSPITAL

The path of an old man led to the Dayton State Hospital far from his native land, Thursday.

Andy Mallick, believed to be about 70 years of age, a native of Slovakia, and a sheep herder by occupation, was committed to the institution by Probate Judge J. C. Marshall after relatives or friends could not be located.

Mallick was found lying face down along the road near Cedarville by people, who notified authorities. Sheriff Morris Sharp brought the man here, and he ate ravenously of food supplied him in the County Jail. An incoherent story led to belief that he was mentally unbalanced.

Mallick's story was incoherently told even through the aid of Abe Hyman, called in as an interpreter. Authorities opened a noted landlubber's ear carried expecting to find personal effects. They found only bits of odds and ends he had picked up along the road.

CALL WALKOUT AS SCHEDULED FRIDAY NIGHT

Miners and Operators Refuse to Accept Basis for Settlement

PARLEY CONTINUES

Warring Factors Will Attempt to Find Common Ground

Harrisburg, Pa., August 31.—All hope of preventing the 1933 anthracite coal strike was abandoned here today.

Behind the closed doors of Governor Pinchot's office at the State House here miner and operator delegations presented their answers to the peace plan submitted to them by the state's chief executive last Wednesday.

Harrisburg, Pa., August 31.—At midnight tonight a strike in the coal fields will be on.

Miners and operators meeting at noon today with Governor Pinchot will inform the Pennsylvania executive that ad vet certain points of his proposal basis for settlement of the anthracite controversy are unacceptable and need clarification.

While this reply will, of necessity mean a walkout as scheduled, the way to future negotiation will not be closed. Enough of the Pinchot plan is acceptable to serve as a basis for further conference.

It will remain for some leading figure—possibly Governor Pinchot, possibly President Coolidge—to once more assemble the miners and operators' committee around the table to take up where the negotiations of the past week left off.

Two phases of the proposals for amicable settlement of the strike presented by Governor Pinchot are puzzling the miners. They want an interpretation and an enlargement on the governor's views as expressed in his third and fourth points: "Full recognition of the union," and "collective bargaining."

The multiplicity of rates in the anthracite mining industry was scored by President Lewis. He said they were established by the commission appointed in 1908, following the 1902 strike, and that all increases and adjustments made since that time have been based on the rates in effect in 1902. Thousands of jobs about the mines have no rates fixed, Lewis asserted, and men working ten feet apart receive different pay. He made these assertions when asked to explain the agreement and pay rates that would now pertain to the maintenance men.

A suggestion that either President Coolidge or Governor Pinchot might appoint a commission to adjust rates brought a laugh from the miners' head. "A commission so appointed would not know about the mines or rates to decide equitably," Lewis said, "unless they go down in the mines. I haven't seen a commission that would stay in the mines more than nine minutes, and you can't get a commission of laymen to adjust mine rates."

While the recommendations of Governor Pinchot, strongly favor the miners, there are certain flaws which the miners feel need adjustment before an agreement is signed. The operators representatives are also expected to present objection to the proposal.

Washington, Aug. 31.—Prepared for any contingencies, President Coolidge today ordered that administration's substitute distribution agencies be ready for action at a moment's notice.

F. R. Wadleigh, federal fuel distributor the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Bureau of Mines and the Coal Commission, have been directed to "stand by with full forces, prepared to carry out the administration's pledge that the country shall not suffer from a fuel shortage this winter."

Physical Health means Beauty!

HEALTH and beauty go hand in hand. Where the system is run down—the face drawn and haggard—the body limp and lifeless—beauty is missing. Looks of pity supplant those that might have been gazes of admiration.

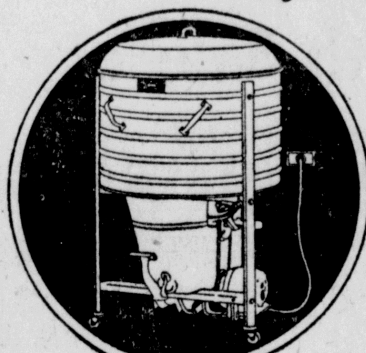

Restore your health and beauty will take care of herself. S. S. S.—the rich blood builder—rekindles the spark of health and lights the blaze of beauty by building red blood cells. The nerve power of your system finds life in these very blood cells. Build more red blood cells and your nerve power will increase. S. S. S. builds them. Rich blood will tingle through your system. That lost charm will return. Your entire system will be repaired. You will be ready to cope with the impurities and blemishes that handicap beauty.

As physical health means beauty so, too, does S. S. S. mean beauty. For S. S. S. means systems that are free from impurities—pimples, blackheads, acne, boils, eczema, rheumatism. S. S. S. and good health go hand in hand.

S. S. S. is made of pure vegetable ingredients. It is sold at all good drug stores. The large size bottle is more economical.

RESERVES READY FOR CITY SERIES WITH COLORED LADS

The Xenia Reserves will go into the city series with the Xenia Red Sox at Dickerson Park Sunday well fortified for any situation that might ensue.

The Reserves management, taking no chances on the crack reputation given the colored boys, has re-enforced his aggregation with a number of stars. Hen Wilson will catch and Frank Hatfield will likely get the call to pitch the first game Sunday, holding Eddie Weaver for the contest Monday at Reserve Park.

Dadisman, crack doorkeeper for the Dayton Studebakers, will play first base, with M. Leahy at the keystone sack. "Buck" Crane of Waynesville at short and "Tad" Randall at third. E. Leahy, F. Leahy and Shaw will be used in the gardens.

The following Reserve players will meet at ten o'clock Sunday morning: Wilson, Sid Hatfield, Greene, F. Hatfield, Weaver, Adams.

“We decided on DUNLOP—the way you pick your tires”

WHEN we were invited to become a Dunlop dealer, we asked the same questions we believed our customers would ask of us.

Is it a reliable tire, built by an established concern? Dunlop is the internationally-greatest tire-industry. Dunlop Tires are in their 35th year of satisfactory performance.

Is there any reason why Dunlop Tires should give better than average mileage? Yes—layers of East India rubber, between the cords, keep them COOL—nearly frictionless. This, plus the diagonal arrangement of the cord layers, is the secret of Dunlop Mileage.

Will they skid? Just look at the Dunlop tread. We don't know of a better non-skid tread on the market.

Do Dunlops cost more? No—they cost no more than other reputable tires.

We believe in Dunlops, and recommend them to you.

The Hooven and Allison Commercial, anxious to avenge a defeat suffered at the hands of the Bowersville team several weeks ago, will play Bowersville again a week from next Sunday at Washington Park, this city.

All players who took part in the last game against Bowersville, which was lost by a close score, are asked to report for this contest, when the locals hope to turn the tables on Bert Bowermeister's pastimers.

With this the last baseball game scheduled for the season the Commercial are turning their attention to the impending football season and have called a grid meeting to be held at Willow Tree Park, at 6:30 o'clock next Tuesday evening. Football players wishing a try out with the team should be on hand as most of the team will be picked at that meeting. Most of the players will be picked from employees of the Hooven and Allison mills, and other players will be used the list of employees who

GOT THE REAL THING

For five years I suffered with stomach trouble and what the doctors called gall stone colic, and said nothing but an operation would do me any good. A friend who had taken your medicine advised me to try it, and I found it to be the real thing. I feel better than I have in eight years and I am praising God for Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. It is a simple harmless preparation that removes catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation, which causes practically all stomach, liver or intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. EVANGELIST CASTS

DEFI AT SHOW HERE

Marching at the head of a column of more than 100 volunteer singers, the Rev. Nathaniel Hawthorne Jeltz, colored evangelist conducting a series of meetings at East High School that will close Friday night, cast a defi in pageant form at the very door of City Hall Theater, where the colored musical comedy, "Follow Me" played Thursday night.

After spending three weeks here, the Rev. Mr. Jeltz wound up his sermon Wednesday night by challenging the musical comedy to produce a better attendance at his specially prepared sermon on the subject "Follow Me", at the school auditorium.

The evangelist promised that should any of the "soldiers" desert his "army" in the "major offensive against sin", and make up an audience at the theater that would be larger than he should muster at the revival services, that he would sacrifice the collection Friday night by leaving the city Friday morning.

Whether the movement had any effect on the crowd that attended the theater is a question, but it is known that Starring Room Only signs were hung out in the balcony of the theater while practically all downstairs seats were filled.

According to the evangelist's computation the crowd at the school auditorium exceeded the crowd at the theater and he did not have to make good his threat to pass up the final offering and leave the city.

A WIFE'S STORY

By Jane Phelps

CHAPTER XV

It was nearly dinner time when Tom appeared. Paul came in a few moments later. Neither talked much and I too was unusually silent feeling the tension.

After dinner they went out on the porch while I cleared away. I worked quickly, anxious to join them. As I went to them I heard their voices in angry dispute. Unconsciously I halted.

"It's none of your damn business if I do gamble!" Paul said. "I suppose you'd prefer your sister should starve. You narrow-minded people make me disgusted. Better men than you gamble."

So this was the source of our income, the reason why Paul had money spasmodically. Like most girls, brought up as I had been, I looked upon gambling with horror; and gambling as a profession was unthinkable. Now Tom was speaking:

"That may be, Paul; I'll not contradict you. I never set up for a saint. But aside from the moral question, what a way to support a family. You, a man with a college education, travelled, refined, making gambling a profession. If Ruby knew it would nearly kill her."

"Suppose you tell her and see," Paul sneered.

"Then there are your children. Can't you see you are ruining their prospects, their lives, if this becomes known? Do quit it, Paul. Find something decent to do, if it's only driving a delivery cart. If you'll let me I'll stay and help you find something." Tom's voice was very earnest.

"Can't you understand I have to have money? I'm not the sort of man who can grub along on a few dollars a week. I wasn't brought up as you were, remember. My people had money." Then in a more conciliating voice: "See here, Tom, what's the use grouncing? I am looking about for something good, but until I find it we have to live. I may land a good job any day."

"But you don't always win, do you?" Tom asked.

"Of course not! But I win oftener than I lose. If I had money enough to play as I should I'd be on easy street."

"But you're not—and you are in debt. Isn't this true?"

"No more than I can handle. Everyone runs bills nowadays. We seem to get along fairly well, don't we? This is a snug little home, Ruby and the children want for nothing. I suppose she has been complaining."

I waited anxiously for Tom's answer.

"No, Ruby has not complained. She would not. But I have eyes. I can see her efforts to economize, her poor, unfashionable clothes, and she has no maid, does everything, even the washing."

"As long as she doesn't complain I don't see as it is any of your business." Paul was becoming angry. "If you are anxious to worry her, go tell her you have meddled with my affairs; that you disapprove of me; that I gamble, and that you, with your Puritanical ideas, your country could think I am going straight to the devil and taking her with me."

"No, I shall not tell her. Let her remain in her fool's paradise as long as she can, poor girl." Tom sighed heavily.

I crept softly away. Tom would not tell me. I never would let either of them know I had heard, knew that I knew. But the shame of it! My handsome, educated husband a common gambler because he was too indolent to work. That, I knew, was the real cause. I had no illusions left, or very few of them. Paul was lazy. Never having been obliged to work, he had lost the inclination. It was his indolence that had kept him putting years over his book; he had used his writing as a blind.

For a few moments I remained in my darkened room facing the future; it looked dark, forbidding. But I must keep up my courage, must not give way. I must think of the children. Paul would not, I knew.

When I joined Paul and Tom on the porch, after making a noisy entrance, they were talking of the new house Tom was building for a manufacturer out home. I joined in the conversation, scarcely knowing what I said, not hearing them. In my mind rang Tom's words:

"It would nearly kill Ruby if she knew."

Official announcement of the resumption of diplomatic relations between the two governments was made at the state department today.

Diplomatic relations between Washington and Mexico City have been broken off since May 1920.

At the beginning of his administration the late President Harding immediately opened negotiations with President Obregon, with a view to establishing a basis for the reestablishment of political intercourse.

For many months the principal question at issue was the retroactivity of article 27, of the Mexican constitution of 1917.

American capitalists with vast oil and mineral interests in Mexico contended that under this section of the constitution their rights were abridged through the confiscation of their property.

Article 7 provided that the Mexican people held title to all mineral deposits and that only Mexicans had the right to develop oil concessions.

The alleged confiscation was alleged to have taken place through exorbitant tax levies against foreign owned properties.

The Mexican supreme court finally held, however, through series of opinions that article 7 of the constitution was not retroactive so that no confiscation of foreign property could be permitted under Mexican law.

This cleared the air and paved the way for the recent international negotiations at Mexico City.

In the conference just concluded, the question of whether or not Mexico was possessed of a stable government was not considered, it being assumed by the American representatives that such a government did exist and that it was fully competent to carry out promises that it might make in treaties or otherwise.

Trade between the U. S. and Mexico is expected to boom and Secretary of Commerce Hoover has already completed plans for sending trade agents into Mexico to determine the country's special needs for American manufactured products.

FIRST MUSHROOMS OF SEASON REPORTED

Adnan Jack, of the Hook Road, wins first prize in the "first" fall mushroom of the season contest.

Some people realize autumn is at hand by the turning of the leaves while others sniff longingly for the opening of the football season.

But to the real, honest-to-goodness mushroom hunter, everything is summer until the first fungus spreads itself over the meadowland. One swallow may not make a summer but one mushroom of the fall variety will make an autumn.

An ample "mess" of the fall fungi was gathered by Mr. Jack, Thursday, the first of the season reported here.

BRISON THINKS COOLIDGE IS MAN

San Francisco, Aug. 31.—"If the names of Hiram Johnson and Calvin Coolidge were submitted to the people in all the Republican states in a presidential preferential primary, Senator Johnson would carry 75 per cent of such states." This was the declaration made here by Senator Harrison of Mississippi, who is in San Francisco in advance of other members of the senate committee on reforestation and conservation of timber, due here early next week.

"However," Senator Harrison continued, "Coolidge will secure the next Republican nomination, not because he is the choice of the rank and file of the Republican party, but because of the tremendous power that will be used by his administration in seeking the nomination for him."

SITUATION ADMITTED TO BE SERIOUS; ALLIES TALK INTERVENTION

Italian Premier Declares Greek Reply to His Ultimatum Unsatisfactory and Refuses Action By League of Nations

BULLETIN
London, August 31.—(7:30 p. m.)—Martial law has been proclaimed throughout Greece by the Athens government, said a Central News dispatch just received from Athens.

London, August 31.—(6:00 p. m.)—An unconfirmed report was received here this evening that Italy has begun to mobilize.

London, August 31.—Premier Mussolini of Italy, will resist intervention by the League of Nations in the Italian Greek dispute over the assassination of Italians, according to a Central News dispatch from Rome.

Rome, August 31.—The semi-official newspaper Messaggero stated today that Premier Mussolini regards the Greek reply to the Italian ultimatum as unsatisfactory.

London, August 31.—British foreign office officials declared this afternoon in the event of war between Italy and Greece, Great Britain would endeavor to restrict the zone of hostilities, preventing other powers from being dragged in.

London, August 31.—The powers were reported today to be exerting pressure upon Premier Mussolini of Italy, to prevent the Italians from going to war against Greece over the assassination of Italian members of the Albanian boundary commission.

The real situation in Italy is somewhat obscure, owing to censorship. The first battle squadron of the British navy has been ordered to assemble at Invergordon, but admiralty officials claim that this activity is without significance. British destroyers have been ordered to concentrate at an unnamed rendezvous.

There is considerable activity at the British naval base of Malta in the Mediterranean.

British newspapers, in discussing war possibilities, point out that Italy outnumbered Greece as to army, navy and air forces three to one. But there is much conjecture as to the attitude of Jugo Slavia and Turkey in the event of war.

Jugo-Slavia is angry over failure to acquire Fiume and the Turks are disgruntled over the loss of African territory to Italy.

Most British newspaper believe that Mussolini acted too hastily and drastically in sending an ultimatum to Athens as the five men who were assassinated were attached to an international organization not one of strictly Italian nationality.

Paris, Aug. 31.—With a situation almost paralleling that of Serajevo, which brought on the world war, an ultimatum by Premier Mussolini to Greece over the killing of the Italian boundary commission, Europe is facing another war and rumors are flying wildly through Paris and other capitals.

Mussolini gave Greece 24 hours to apologize for the murders and to agree to pay a large indemnity. The Greek cabinet agreed to meet some of the Italian demands, but refused to accede to them fully. The Italian fleet is concentrating at Taranto, just across the Ionian sea from the Greek coast, and there are reports of concentration of troops in the interior of Italy.

The powers have been making moves to bring the situation under the guiding hand of the league of nations. If the league refuses to entertain the Greek request that it handle the difficult situation arising from the murders, or if Italy declines to accept the league's arbitration, it will mean that the league is useless for the very purpose for which it was founded, namely, the prevention of war.

The fact that the conferences of ambassadors here upheld Italy's action is interpreted to mean that the powers intend to exert the utmost pressure on Greece to force her to comply with Mussolini's terms in order to prevent possible hostilities.

Frankly, many diplomats here said they did not expect that war would come, but they admitted that the crisis was exceedingly severe. It is said that Greece, acting on the ground that Mussolini's ultimatum constitutes a threat of war, will demand intervention by the league, the covenant of which in such cases provides "one year's delay before action." This action was taken to mean that Greece does not intend to comply with Mussolini's demand. The Greek embassy here declared that the $2,000,000 indemnity demanded is impossible of payment, and characterizes the other Italian demands as "incompatible with the dignity of the Greek nation."

A dispatch from Rome says anti-Greek disorders were widespread throughout Italy and the government has appealed to the fascist forces to keep order.

Leonard was arrested by Sheriff Morris Sharp, who believed him taking orders for liquor smugglers, who are said to be bringing real liquor across the Canadian border. One and a half quarts of Gordon dry gin were confiscated officers say.

Leonard first presented his card, giving the name of Saunders and said he was traveling for a novelty house. He later admitted, officers say, that his name was Leonard and that he was liquor salesman, declaring it was his initial attempt. He is still being held in the County Jail.

There were fully 100 knights in the hall at daybreak, besieged by a dwindling crowd of attackers. Police saw the ranks of the besiegers being thinned with the coming of day, they urged the clansmen still in the building to flee. Police commanded a big covered automobile truck and while they stood guard some of the knights were hustled into the vehicle. Others fled in groups of twos and threes through a rear door under police guard.

As the truck sped away a shower of bricks and stones were hurled at it. At the county bridge, leading into South Amboy, another anti-Klan crowd swarmed about the vehicle, but police on the running board beat them off and the vehicle reached a zone of safety.

Police arrested three men charging them with carrying concealed weapons.

HOLDS MONROE DOCTRINE VITAL TO U. S. SAFETY

Hughes Holds Its Not Inimical to Any Other Nation

ADDRESSES LAWYERS

American People Still Intent On Staying Out Of Europe

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 30.—The Monroe doctrine as a cherished national policy of the United States is "inimical to no just interest and deemed to be vitally related to our own safety and to peaceful progress of the peoples of this hemisphere," was discussed here by Secretary of State Hughes in addressing the American Bar Association.

Mr. Hughes pointed out that the American people "are still intent upon abstaining from participation in the political strife of Europe." The American attitude, he explained, is "one of independence, not of isolation."

In this connection, Mr. Hughes said: "Our people are not disposed to commit this government in advance to the use of its power in unknown contingencies, preferring to reserve freedom of action in the confidence of our ability and readiness to respond to every future call of duty. They have no desire to put their power in pledge, but they do not shrink from cooperation with other nations when there is a sound basis for it and a consciousness of community of interest. Co-operation is not distinction and it is not partisanship."

The words of Washington's farewell address, Mr. Hughes asserted, "were more than a solemn admonition of the foremost American patriot—they set forth principles which those who established our foreign policy held to be its cornerstone."

The secretary then took up the promulgation of the doctrine by President Monroe in his message to congress just a century ago, and sketched its development in later years. Outlining "the doctrine as it has been and as it is believed to remain," Mr. Hughes emphasized the following points:

First, the Monroe Doctrine is not a policy of aggression, but a policy of self-defense; second, as its policy is distinctively the policy of the United States, the American government reserves to itself its definition, interpretation and application; third, the doctrine "does not in any way touch upon the independence and sovereignty of other American states; fourth, intervention in Haiti, Cuba and elsewhere were 'not to exploit, but to aid, not to subvert, but to help in laying the foundations for sound, stable and independent government; fifth, the Monroe doctrine 'does not stand in the way of Pan-American co-operation—rather it affords the necessary foundation for that co-operation in the independence and security of American states.'"

The legal battle between the city of Xenia with interurban bus operators to force the operators to pay a license fee in compliance with a city ordinance will be carried to higher courts.

This was assured Thursday after Clarence S. Stoner, operator of a line between Dayton and Xenia had been fined $50 and costs by Judge Smith, of Municipal Court for violation of the ordinance, after a hearing Thursday afternoon.

By agreement, cases against other interurban bus line owners have been temporarily suspended and the action centered on the Stoner case to make a test case of the action. Attorneys for Stoner signified their intention of carrying the case to Common Pleas Court on appeal and in order to get a hearing as soon as possible and take the action to test the ordinance before the Court of Appeals.

Other cases will be held up pending a decision on the Stoner case by agreement.

TEXAN FINED ON LIQUOR CHARGE HERE

Frank Leonard, 25, Austin, Texas, alias T. E. Sanders of Columbus, reported salesman of real liquor, was fined $500 and costs when he entered a guilty plea to possessing liquor before Magistrate J. E. Jones, Thursday afternoon.

Leonard was arrested by Sheriff Morris Sharp, who believed him taking orders for liquor smugglers, who are said to be bringing real liquor across the Canadian border. One and a half quarts of Gordon dry gin were confiscated officers say.

Leonard first presented his card, giving the name of Saunders and said he was traveling for a novelty house. He later admitted, officers say, that his name was Leonard and that he was liquor salesman, declaring it was his initial attempt. He is still being held in the County Jail.

HELD AS SKIPPER OF PIRATE CRAFT

Pirate Craft and
Carl N. A. Voss

Carl N. A. Voss, Gloucester (Mass.) business man and confessed rum runner is charged with shooting Captain Arthur Moore and Cook Harry Harn on the Canadian rum-running ship "J. Scott Hankinson," off Cape Ann. Voss denied the charges. The "Hankinson," lying in "Rum Row" to sell her illicit cargo was boarded by desperadoes from the stolen motorboat Greyhound, 15 miles off Thatcher's Island. After the shooting the pirates looted the ship of its cargo and money and scuttled it, but failed to sink it. The Greyhound was found later by Gloucester fishermen and towed ashore.

CALL WALKOUT AS SCHEDULED FRIDAY NIGHT

Miners and Operators Refuse to Accept Basis for Settlement

PARLEY CONTINUES

Warring Factors Will Attempt to Find Common Ground

Harrisburg, Pa., August 31.—All hope of preventing the 1923 anthracite coal strike was abandoned here today.

Behind the closed doors of Governor Pinchot's office at the State House here miner and operator delegations presented their answers to the peace plan submitted to them by the state's chief executive last Wednesday.

Harrisburg, Pa., August 31.—At midnight tonight a strike in the coal fields will be on.

Miners and operators meeting at noon today with Governor Pinchot will inform the Pennsylvania executive that as yet certain points of his proposal basis for settlement of his anthracite controversy are unacceptable and need clarification.

While this reply will, of necessity mean a walkout as scheduled, the way to future negotiation will not be closed. Enough of the Pinchot plan is acceptable to serve as a basis for further conference.

It will remain for some leading figure—possibly Governor Pinchot, possibly President Coolidge—to once more assemble the miners and operators' committee around the table to take up where the negotiations of the past week left off.

Two phases of the proposals for amicable settlement of the strike presented by Governor Pinchot are puzzling the miners. They want an interpretation and an enlargement on the governor's views as expressed in his third and fourth points: "Full recognition of the union," and "collective bargaining."

The multiplicity of rates in the anthracite mining industry was scored by President Lewis. He said they were established by the commission appointed in 1903, following the 1902 strike, and that all increases and adjustments made since that time have been based on the rates in effect in 1902. Thousands of jobs about the mines have no rates fixed, Lewis asserted, and men working ten feet apart receive different pay. He made these assertions when asked to explain the agreement and pay rates that would now pertain to the maintenance men.

A suggestion that either President Coolidge or Governor Pinchot might appoint a commission to adjust rates brought a laugh from the miners' head. "A commission so appointed would not know about the mines or rates to decide equitable," Lewis said, "unless they go down in the mines. I haven't seen a commission that would stay in the mines more than nine minutes, and you can't get a commission of laymen to adjust mine rates."

While the recommendations of Governor Pinchot, strongly favor the miners, there are certain flaws which the miners feel need adjustment before an agreement is signed. The operators representatives are also expected to present objection to the proposal.

Washington, Aug. 31.—Prepared for any contingencies, President Coolidge today ordered that administration's substitute distribution agencies be ready for action at a moment's notice.

F. R. Wadleigh, federal fuel distributor the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Bureau of Mines and the Coal Commission, have been directed to "stand by" with full forces, prepared to carry out the administration's pledge that the country shall not suffer from a fuel shortage this winter.

OHIO VETS SCHOOL TO CLOSE
Washington, Aug. 31.—The veterans' school at Chillicothe, O., will be closed as soon as those being trained there can be satisfactorily moved to other schools, it was said at the veterans' bureau here.

HEAVY TOLL TAKEN IN BLAST IN PHILADELPHIA ON FRIDAY

Philadelphia, Pa., August 31.—Two persons are dead, two dying and eight injured following an explosion early today that destroyed a nitro naphtha line still in the chemical works of the Barrett Company, chemical engineers here.

Firemen with difficulty checked the flames which followed the blast. As an ambulance was about to move off with some of the injured, its driver James Rowley, who was cranking it, was struck by a motor car both, his legs being broken. A policeman drove the ambulance to the hospital.

Four more of the injured are in a critical condition.

The dead are: Andrew Kalbas and John Kasanuk of Philadelphia.

The injured: Gus Adams and Stanley Manoski of this city.

The injured: Alexander Knox, Stanislaus Michelsky, John James, William Dirne, Thomas Marvine, Michael Geddes, Frank Norton and Frank Donickston, all of Philadelphia.

INDIANA GOVERNOR
RESIGNS AS HEAD OF
BANKING HOUSE

Indianapolis, Aug. 31.—Governor Warren T. McCray, who took office a millionaire, today will face a creditors' meeting, the victim, he claims, of the agricultural depression.

The meeting of creditors, largely banks which hold the governor's paper, was called by the governor himself, following the announcement of his resignation as president of the Discount and Deposit bank of Kentland, Ind.

"My land holdings amounting to more than 15,000 acres of choice land, together with inability to cash the cattle paper due me from my cattle customers, amounting to more than $500,000, and the depression in land and cattle values, have made it impossible for me to meet my obligations as they matured," the governor declared in a statement.

The governor's bank, although a small institution, at various times has been a heavy depository for state funds, having been allocated $175,000 by the state board of finance. The bank also held funds of the state board of agriculture.

A pool of $350,000 was raised by prominent politicians and financiers headed by ex-Governor James P. Goodrich in an effort to help the governor re-finance himself, and although this relieved the governor of a serious immediate embarrassment, it was found necessary to call his creditors together.

FOREIGNER SENT TO STATE HOSPITAL

The path of an old man led to the Dayton State Hospital far from his native land, Thursday.

Andy Malack, believed to be about 70 years of age, a native of Slovakia, and a sheep herder by occupation, was committed to the institution by Probate Judge J. C. Marshall after relatives or friends could not be located.

Malack was found lying face down along the road near Cedarville by people, who notified authorities. Sheriff Morris Sharp brought the man here, and he ate ravenously of food supplied him in the County Jail. An incoherent story led to belief that he was mentally unbalanced.

Malack's story was incoherently told even through the aid of Abe Hyman, called in as an interpreter. Authorities opened a noted landlubber's effects. They found only bits of odds and ends he had picked up along the road.

Physical Health means Beauty!

HEALTH and beauty go hand in hand. Where the system is run down—the face drawn and haggard—the body limp and lifeless—beauty is missing. Looks of pity supplant those that might have been gazes of admiration. Restore your health and beauty will take care of itself. S. S. S.—the rich blood builder—rekindles the spark of health and lights the blaze of beauty by building red blood cells. The nerve power of your system finds life in these very blood cells. Build more red blood cells and your nerve power will increase. S. S. S. builds them. Rich blood will tingle through your system. That lost charm will return. Your entire system will be repaired. You will be ready to cope with the impurities and blemishes that handicap beauty. As physical health means beauty so, too, does S. S. S. mean beauty. For S. S. S. means systems that are free from impurities—pimples, blackheads, acne, boils, eczema, rheumatism. S. S. S. and good health go hand in hand. S. S. S. is made of pure vegetable ingredients. It is sold at all good drug stores. The large size bottle is more economical.

EVANGELIST CASTS

Marching at the head of a column of more than 100 volunteer singers, the Rev. Nathaniel Hawthorne Jeltz, colored evangelist conducting a series of meetings at East High School that will close Friday night, cast a deft in peasant form at the very door of City Hall Theater, where the colored musical comedy, "Follow Me" played Thursday night.

After spending three weeks here, the Rev. Mr. Jeltz wound up his sermon Wednesday night by challenging the musical comedy to produce a better attendance at the theater than would listen to his specially prepared sermon on the subject "Follow Me" at the school auditorium.

The evangelist promised that should any of the "soldiers" desert his "army" in the "major offensive against sin", and make up an audience at the theater that would be larger than he should muster at the revival services, that he would sacrifice the collection Friday night by leaving the city Friday morning.

Whether the movement had any effect on the crowd that attended the theater is a question, but it is known that Standing Room Only signs were hung out in the balcony of the theater while practically all downstairs seats were filled.

According to the evangelist's computation the crowd at the school auditorium exceeded the crowd at the theater and he did not have to make good his threat to pass up the final ofering and leave the city.

A WIFE'S STORY

By Jane Phelps

CHAPTER XV

It was nearly dinner time when Tom appeared. Paul came in a few moments later. Neither talked much and I too was unusually silent feeling the tension.

After dinner they went out on the porch while I cleared away. I worked quickly, anxious to join them. As I went to them I heard their voices in angry dispute. Unconsciously I halted.

"It's none of your damn business if I do gamble!" Paul said. "I suppose you'd prefer your sister should starve. You narrow-minded people make me disgusted. Better men than you gamble."

So this was the source of our income, the reason why Paul had money spasmodically. Like most girls, brought up as I had been, I looked upon gambling with horror; and gambling as a profession was unthinkable. Now Tom was speaking.

"That may be, Paul; I'll not contradict you. I never set up for a saint. But aside from the moral question, what a way to support a family. You, a man with a college education, travelled, refined, making gambling a profession. If Ruby knew it would nearly kill her."

"Suppose you tell her and see," Paul sneered.

"Then there are your children. Can't you see you are ruining their prospects, their lives, if this becomes known? Do quit it, Paul. Find something decent to do, if it's only driving a delivery cart. If you'll let me I'll stay and help you find something." Tom's voice was very earnest.

"Can't you understand I have to have money? I'm not the sort of man who can grub along on a few dollars a week. I wasn't brought up as you were, remember. My people had money." Then in a more conciliating voice: "See here, Tom, what's the use of grouting? I am looking about for something good, but until I find it we have to live. I may land a good job any day."

"But you don't always win, do you?" Tom asked.

"Of course not! But I win oftener than I lose. If I had money enough to play as I should I'd be on easy street."

"But you're not—and you are in debt. Isn't this true?"

"No more than I can handle. Everyone runs bills nowadays. We seem to get along fairly well, don't we? This is a snug little home. Ruby and the children want for nothing. I suppose she has been complaining."

I waited anxiously for Tom's answer.

"No, Ruby has not complained. She would not. But I have eyes. I can see her efforts to economize, her poor, unfashionable clothes, and she has no maid, does everything, even the washing."

"As long as she doesn't complain I don't see as it is any of your business," Paul was becoming angry. "If you are anxious to worry her, go tell her you have meddled with my affairs; that you disapprove of me; that I gamble, and that you, with your Puritanical ideas, your country could think I am going straight to the devil and taking her with me."

"No, I shall not tell her. Let her remain in her fool's paradise as long as she can, poor girl." Tom sighed heavily.

I crept softly away. Tom would not tell me. I never would let either of them know I had heard, knew that I knew. But the shame of it! My handsome, educated husband a common gambler because he was too indolent to work. That, I knew, was the real cause. I had no illusions left, or very few of them. Paul was lazy. Never having been obliged to work, he had lost the inclination. It was his indolence that had kept him putting years over his book; he had used his writing as a blind.

For a few moments I remained in my darkened room facing the future; it looked dark, forbidding. But I must keep up my courage, must not give way. I must think of the children. Paul would not, I knew.

When I joined Paul and Tom on the porch, after making a noisy entrance, they were, talking of the new house Tom was building for a manufacturer out home. I joined in the conversation, scarcely knowing what I said, not hearing them. In my mind rang Tom's words:

"It would nearly kill Ruby if she knew."
